The arts showcase moves forward

We have posted an improved review for the energy savings project so that students can plan ahead. The team reviewed feedback on the community garden and made several changes to the schedule. Funding for the track meet comes from the regular budget and from local partners. Over the past year, board members told us that the energy savings project was a priority, and this schedule reflects that. The redesigned guide covers after-school programs and explains how teachers can get involved this fall.

Printed copies are available at the district office, and the full details on the community garden are posted online. Changes to the facilities plan take effect each Tuesday evening, and staff members will receive a reminder beforehand. A free project for the spring concert will begin each Tuesday evening, and parents and guardians are welcome to take part. This report is part of a larger effort to support students and to keep parent-teacher conferences on track. We have posted an expanded schedule for crossing guard coverage so that residents can plan ahead.

Questions about the facilities plan can be directed to the north campus, where someone is available to help. Changes to crossing guard coverage take effect on weekday mornings, and families will receive a reminder beforehand. The free guide covers the new reading curriculum and explains how students can get involved before the end of the month. The following steps explain how teachers can take part in the vaccination clinic. The team reviewed feedback on the summer reading challenge and made several changes to the program.

Over the past year, volunteers told us that the student council election was a priority, and this service reflects that. Printed copies are available at the community center, and the full details on the robotics club are posted online. Details on the farmers market are listed below, along with who to contact at the district office. Accommodations are available on request; ask at the aquatic center before before the end of the month.